'Squirring Irma' Tests Seat Fabric

Now comes "Squirring Irma." Researchers for one of the automobile companies found it comparatively simple to discern women's tastes and preferences of design and styling for the 1949 models. But when it came to fabric wear, they had a problem. They finally collaborated with a seating company and a well-shaped contraption was evolved known as "Squirring Irma." The mechanical lady approximated the build of that part of a 130-pound woman sitting on a car seat—and gave 11 squirms a minute! And that was how the Ford Motor Company tested fabric wear and construction.

Walteria Progress of Community Is Reviewed

Steady progress is being made on the recreation building in Walteria Park and most of the heavy construction work has been completed, the Walteria Civic Organization was advised at its meeting last Wednesday night at the school. Volunteers now are needed for completion of the interior. Walteria now has a much-needed police patrol by volunteers, working in cooperation with the police department, and a fire inspection of the community now is being made with other volunteers working with the regular Torrance firemen. The civic organization voted to extend its cooperation to the Torrance Educational Advisory Committee in giving a reception for the teachers of Walteria and Torrance on Nov. 16. Mrs. E. V. Kelley represents the organization on the TEAC. W. J. Crowther, past president of the Civic Organization was honored by the presentation of a gavel. Crowther now is chairman of the Torrance Planning Commission, and was one of the first members of that body.

All residents interested in the betterment of Walteria are urged to attend the organization's meetings, held on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month. Meetings are to be held at the elementary school until the new recreation building is ready in the park. TRIP FOR 'Y' BOYS The Wags Gray-Y Club in the Hamilton tract, affiliated with the Torrance Y.M.C.A., will visit the Deep Sea Diving School at San Pedro Saturday. May I suggest a big stack of our hotcakes, smothered with syrup and maybe a side order of bacon and of course a cup or two of our delicious coffee. Of course folks, I could suggest many more good things to eat, but golly that one sounds so good I'm going to stop right there and have an order myself. Aerodynamics: Sonic Moppets Want Answers Memo to kindergarten, elementary and junior high school teachers: You can expect U. S. school children to ask more questions about aircraft construction than any other phase of aviation. And next to the structure of a plane, pupils are likely to be most interested in what makes them fly (aerodynamics), and how to go about making a career in aviation. From the early school years to junior high, pupils' interest also switches from recognition of plane types to questions about technological advances, such as atomic and rocket propulsion, supersonic and pilotless flight.
